Our story is your story

A living room is a private place where families and friends enjoy themselves, associate with each other and relax together. A stylish, contemporary sofa is like a quiet companion of life that offers comfort, reflects its owners character and easily adapts to different situations. With Indera, the focus will always be on the users and their habits, in the design as well as in the development and production of our ultra-modular sofas. Indera is a kind of experience and emotion and it stands for furniture with a story to tell, your story.

Modularity & personality

Through intense and inspiring cooperation with well-known designers from home and abroad, surprisingly modular mechanisms are being developed. This extensive flexibility offers freedom to you as a user, as you can make up your own perfect and unique sofa. You choose your own upholstery from a range of high quality fabrics or leather in any color. The furniture will be adaptable too, according to circumstance. That way you will create in no time a sitting or lying island for cozy TV evenings, or you dismantle the sofa into trendy seat-units for a home party. All this will result into furniture with a soul, with the purpose of creating an interaction between the furniture and the user. Because we want you to feel good in our furniture.

Our furniture is made with love so fall in love with it

Our sofas combine strong design with solid seat comfort of the highest standard. The passion and craftsmanship in producing our sofas are passed from generation to generation. INDERA is part of the Mecam-group, a Belgian family business with 340 employees. For more than 40 years, Mecam manufactures upholstered furniture of the highest standard in Dilsen-Stokkem (Belgium). Years of experience, passion for the job and continuous innovation have led to the most efficient and high quality production, using the best materials only in an optimal manner. In order to guarantee this high quality, all our fabrics and leathers are being tested in house to lightfastness, pilling and wearability. By doing this, we create beautiful and long-lasting furniture for your living room. Contemporary furniture that grows with you and your family.

Now you know our story, we would be happy to hear yours...
